

Understanding the Social and Structural Drivers of Food and Nutrition Insecurity

EVENT PAGE:

oneop.org/event/118697/

CONTINUING EDUCATION:

- For RDNs and NDTRs from the Commission on Dietetic Registration
- For Social Workers, Licensed Professional Counselors, and Licensed Marriage and Family Therapists from the University of Texas at Austin, Steve Hicks School of Social Work
- For Case Managers from the Commission for Case Manager Certification
- For Certified Family Life Educators from the National Council on Family Relations
- Certificates of Attendance available for those interested in documenting additional professional development hours.

About this Webinar:

This webinar will highlight the social and structural determinants of food and nutrition insecurity and examine strategies and approaches for improving food access and equity in military families as well as all families.

Learning Objectives:

Within this webinar, the presenter will:

- Describe the prevalence and determinants of food and nutrition insecurity in military families
- Discuss potential policy and programmatic solutions to improve food and nutrition security in military families
- Explain what providers/practitioners can do to promote overall health and well-being in military families.

PRESENTER:

Dr. Angela Odoms-Young

she/her/hers

Associate Professor,

Division of Nutritional Sciences College of Human Ecology at Cornell University, Ithaca

