

Navigating Deployment: Strategies to Help Military Families

EVENT PAGE:

OneOp.org/event/129668

CONTINUING EDUCATION:

- University of Texas at Austin, Steve Hicks School of Social Work
- Commission for Case Manager Certification
- National Council on Family Relations
- Certificate of attendance available

PRESENTERS:

Dr. Mallory Lucier-Greer is an Associate Professor of Human Development and Family Science at Auburn University. She is an applied researcher focused on the well-being of families, particularly military families, with a clinical background as a marriage and family therapist.

Dr. Catherine O'Neal is an Assistant Professor of Human Development and Family Science at the University of Georgia. Her research focuses on the interplay of risk and resilience, particularly for military families, to inform evidence-based outreach efforts.

With their Military REACH team, they recently completed a report entitled, A Review of Evidence-Based Strategies to Help Military Families Navigate Deployment.

Masaschi/Pixaba CC0

ABOUT THIS WEBINAR:

How do families manage deployments and family separation? The short answer is that it's a process – or, perhaps more aptly, a cycle.

This webinar explores the deployment cycle and associated challenges from the perspective of different family members and identifies circumstances and family contexts that exacerbate the stress of being separated. Join this webinar to discuss evidence-based tips and strategies for serving and empowering military families throughout the deployment cycle based on decades of research across the deployment cycle.

This webinar is based, in part, off a recent report by Military REACH focused on evidence-based strategies to help military families navigate deployment.

