

September 2022 | OneOp Family Development Monthly Newsletter

Greetings from OneOp Family Development,

September is National Suicide Prevention Month. Recent data shows an estimated 1.2 million adults die by suicide yearly in the United States. To begin the month, you will find a few resources below for strengthening your toolkit.

Mental health matters for everyone. Expanding the conversation on mental well-being is a foundation of the work of all clinicians supporting individuals, families, and communities.***

- This article from the American Academy of Pediatrics provides resources, conversation strategies, and additional toolkits for providers supporting individuals, families, and communities most at risk for suicide.
- Seize the Awkward also offers tools to help facilitate a network of support for those needing extra mental health advocacy and care.
- 988 is the National Suicide and Crisis Lifeline (call and text). This national helpline connects callers with trained counselors who can assist those experiencing suicidal thoughts or other mental health distress or for loved ones needing support.

- Join our upcoming webinar live ***Suicide Prevention and Working with Military Families*** to further discuss recent data and evidence-informed best practices working with service members and/or military families.

September brings awareness to the daily impact suicide has had on countless families, homes, and communities. Whether your role is a CFLE, BCPA, LCSW, LPC, LMFT, or other mental health professional or carer, your role in helping those at risk of suicidal behavior is so valued.

We hope these resources and the network around you continue to bolster your support for suicide prevention and mental health care.
