

Tiny Hearts, Big Emotions: Cultivating Learning & Development with Responsive Practices

ABOUT THIS WEBINAR:

This webinar explores emotional intelligence development from birth, focusing on regulation, attachment, and expression within cultural contexts. Explore how, in partnership with caregivers, to support this growth through nurturing interactions, impacting future relationships, learning, and overall development.

LEARNING OBJECTIVES

In this webinar we will:

1. Identify temperament styles and how temperament affects attachment and relationships with adults.
2. Describe the role that relationships play in self-regulation and the formation of identity.
3. Distinguish between the cultural differences and how emotional expressions are used for communication.
4. Identify promotion, prevention, and intervention strategies to promote emotional learning and development.
