Definitions

- 529 Plan: Named after Section 529 of the Internal Revenue Code
- Qualified Tuition Plans: IRS name for 529 plans
 - See IRS Publication 970
- Two plans:
 - Prepaid Tuition Plan
 Savings Plan
- Established by states or educational institutions
- Contributions: Transfer money into a plan
- Withdrawal: Transfer money out of a plan, distributions

9

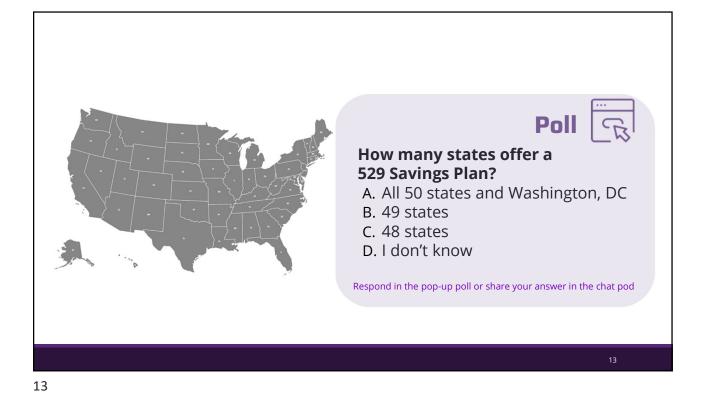

Prepaid Tuition Plans

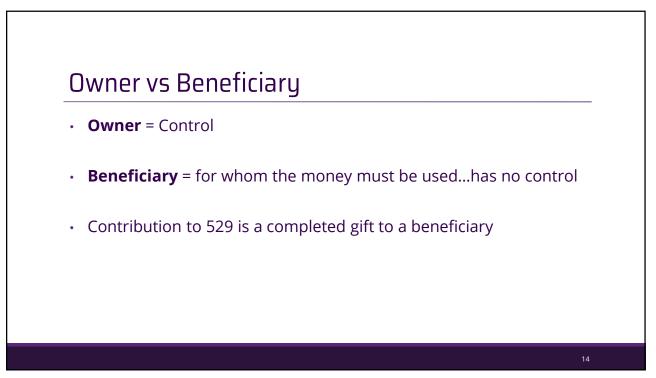

- Purchasing tuition at today's rates to avoid future tuition increases
- Usually limited to tuition
- · Usually limited to residents of that state
- · Limited benefits for attending a school outside that state or nonparticipating
- Limited enrollment periods
- · Limited options if child decides not to attend

Savings Plans

- More popular option
- Default when someone says 529 plan
- States usually partner with an investment manager and recordkeeper
- May be marketed uniquely

- Deferred taxation until distribution (!!!)

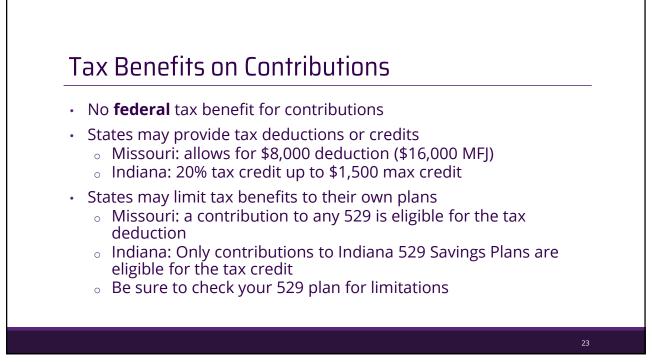

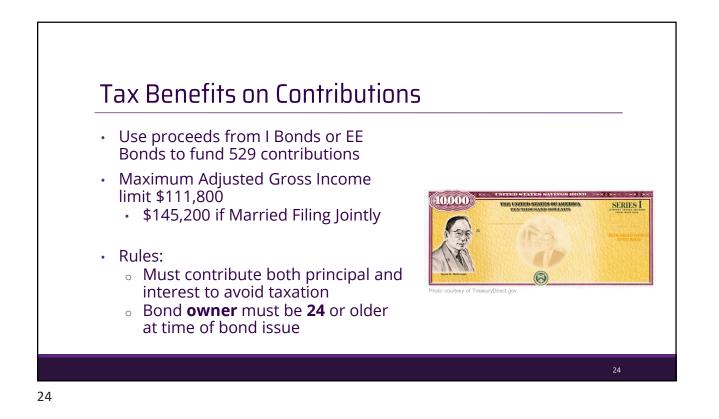

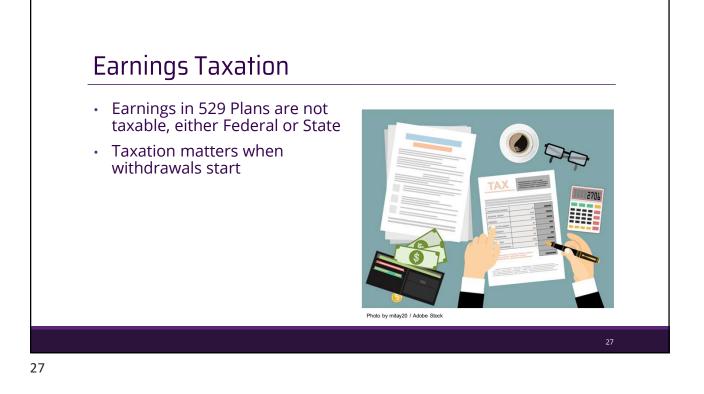

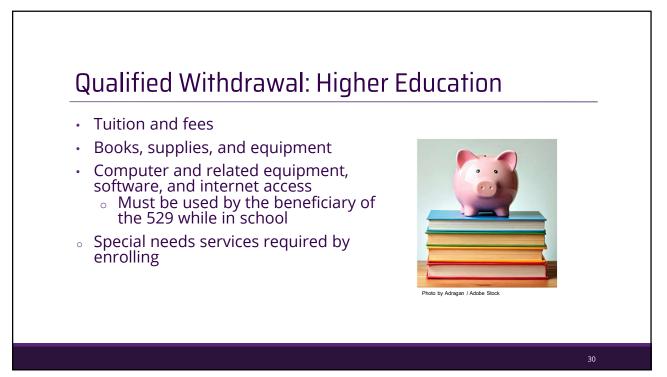

- Can have multiple 529 accounts across multiple states
- Intent is to use the funds for education
- From IRS Publication 970:
 - "Contributions to a Qualified Tuition Program (QTP) on behalf of any beneficiary can't be more than the amount necessary to provide for the qualified education expenses of the beneficiary."

Qualified Withdrawal: Higher Education

- Room and board (more than half time student) limited to the greater of the following
 - Allowance for Room and Board from the educational institution
 - Actual amount of housing costs charged by the educational institution
- Only chance for tax benefit on Room and Board

Qualified Withdrawal: Student Loans

 $10,000 paid as principal or interest on a qualified student loan for the beneficiary or their siblings

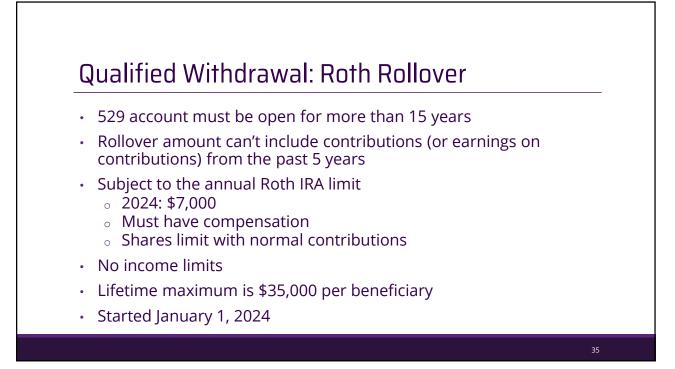

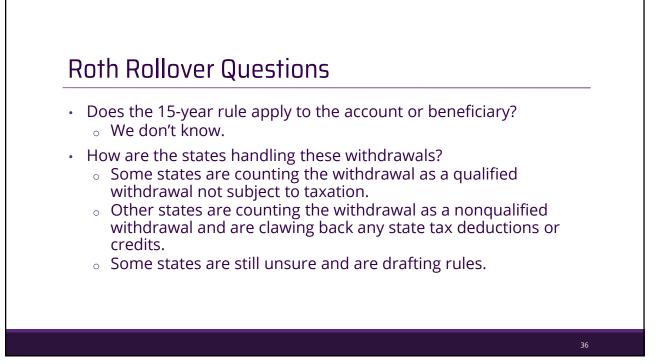

Qualified Withdrawal: Apprenticeship

- Registered and certified program with US Secretary of Labor
- Fees
- Books, supplies, and equipment

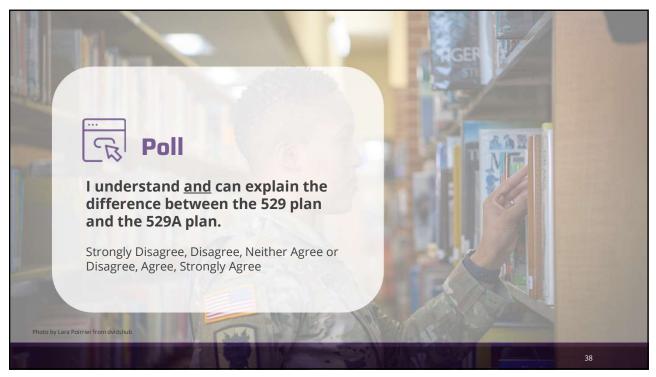

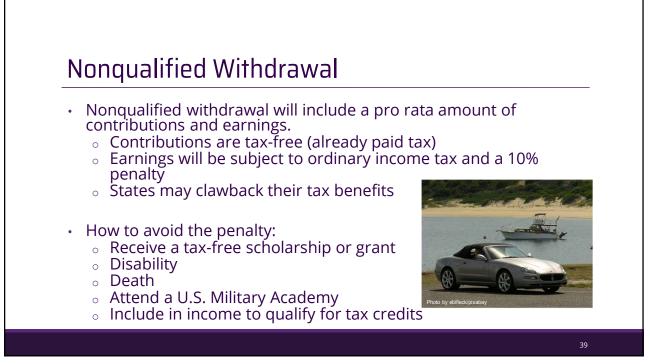

Qualified Withdrawal: Rollover to ABLE

- Achieving a Better Life Experience
- 529A of the Internal Revenue Code
- Individual with a disability (starting before age 26*) can save funds in an ABLE account
 - ° *or age 46 after January 1, 2026
- Account balances don't count toward asset limits

 Until balances exceed $100,000
- Maintains eligibility for SSI, Medicaid, etc.
- · Can be used for everyday living expenses

529 Considerations

- Great way to save money for future generations (or current)
- Don't give up control
- Beware of future Account Owners
- Education expenses will be around for a while...plan for the future
- Maximize Tax Credits and 529 funds
- Consider the state's rules!
 - Alabama: Deduction only for contributions to Alabama's plan.
 - Alabama: Any withdrawals from any plan other than Alabama's 529 is taxable to Alabama.
